Unfortunately there is only 3 out of 14 responses to the evaluation of the course, which questions a bit the validity.

Analys

The general opinion of the students regarding the overall course is rated as good. Unfortunately there is only 3 out of 14 responses of the evaluation of this course, this questions a bit the validity. The results indicate that the students were satisfied with the lectures and labs and that the course in general covered the most important aspects of JavaScript programming. Particularly, students mention that what has been good in this course was that both the lectures and labs were well organized through the examples provided, and that the idea of introducing the real life project was really a good idea. However some suggested that the lab and lectures should be better synchronized. Better explanation of the final project and better communication plan. However, the 3 respondents rated that they reached the learning outcomes. Also that examination forms gave them the opportunity to show how well they achieved the learning objectives.

They said that doing the assignments have helped them learn the subject but we must balance the project work with the assignments.

Åtgärdsplan

Some points to be tackled in future editions: (a) Lectures and Labs to be better synchronized, (b) better explanation of the final project and students efforts to put on, (c) Better balancing the project work and in connection with assignments. Some of the changes for the course, particularly the project part need to be discussed with other teachers, and the program leaders at the department.
